Robert Price Builders' Merchants donate tools and timber products to the Rogiet Allotment and Leisure Gardeners Society

Robert Price Builders' Merchants, based in Abergavenny, has donated a variety of tools, timber products and high visibility waistcoats to the Rogiet Allotment and Leisure Gardeners Society, who have recently taken over the responsibility for an allotment in Rogiet from the local authority.

Aaron Reekes, a member of the allotment society, commented: "I saw an article from Robert Price in a recent edition of Monmouthshire Housing Association's Tenant Matters magazine, which outlined their Community Support Scheme.

"As a society, we are keen to make the most of the 30 plot allotment at Rogiet. After contacting Robert Price, I was delighted to secure a supply of tools and materials, which will be used to construct raised planting beds and for general maintenance."

Peter Townsend, marketing manager for Robert Price, commented: "I am glad that our Community Support Scheme will enable the allotment society to move forward with their plans.

"Robert Price is keen to support similar ventures, and will continue to offer selected materials free of charge to any charity, club or community group in Monmouthshire who can make use of them.

"There will be a limited amount of these items available, so they will be on a first come, first served basis. The materials may be discontinued, or surplus to stock needs, but will all be perfectly fit for use. All items are to be collected from a designated Robert Price branch."

Anyone representing a club or society should contact Peter Townsend at Robert Price Builders' Merchants on 01873 858585 or email marketing@robert-price.co.uk.
